WASHINGTON. June 13.—(P)—
Veterans' affairs, which have become inseparably mixed with adjournment plans of the extra session of congress, prevented members from packing up tonight for the journey home.

On a vote that did not reach the vital point at issue, the senate sent the partial conference report agreed upon for the independent offices supply bill back to a committee of house and senate members for the reinsertion of an amendment affecting veterans which the senate had put into the bill.

A one million-dollar appropriation was involved. It would provide for turning over to sick veterans, regardless of the origin of their infirmities, any beds now empty in veterans hospitals.

Leaders who were driving for adjournment tonight, gave up all hope after the senate voted, 48 to 31, to demand that the amendment be put back into the bill.

They adjourned the senate Day.

Still remaining the schippers and held that the beer could not "be a legitimate article of interstate commerce and therefore could not be seized. Judge Underwood summed the issue up as follows:

"If the beer in question, that is beer having an alcoholic content of 3.2 in the partial of the unitied states."

The daded:

"Neither congress nor a state can pass any act which would make law four the transportation of any intoxicating regardless of the origin of their infirmities, any beds now empty in veterans hospitals.

The judge said that it was indisputable that the beer could not be lawfully seized by Sheriff Legg or any other enforcing official if it was a legitimate article of interstate commerce, citing a number of decisions of the supreme court of the United States.

"There is no evidence introduced to show whether or not the beer was intoxicating, but all of the above stated facts are admitted," Judge Underwood treats.

The judge said that it was indisputable to patrol that section of the state capital housing the treasury, and, although State Treasurer George B. EDGAR WATKINS SPEAKS ATCIVITAN CONVENTION

Prejudice as it affects good citizen-ship was the keynote of an address by Edgar Watkins, Atlanta lawyer. by Edgar Watkins, Atlanta lawyer, in an address before the International Civitan convention in Memphis, Tenn., Tuesday. "One may vote regularly," he said, "and yet influence but little the character of his government."

Citing prejudice in matters of government, Mr. Watkins said he knew some people who consider the eighteenth amendment "as sacred as one of the Ten Commandments." and others "who express the opinion that any one who believes in the amendany one who believes in the amend-ment is a fanatic and not sufficiently intelligent to be entitled to voice an opinion."

A COMPANY THIRTY YEARS OLD

This week Friday the Ford Motor Company completes 30 years of automobile making.

It is also my fortieth year at the same job. I made my first engine in 1893, and it still runs. This is the engine that won the Selden Patent Suit---which took the motor car out of the exclusive class, and opened the automobile industry to hundreds of manufacturers who started during

Some of the men who began with me that June day in 1903, are working here yet. All of the principles we laid down then, are still operative; we find that they have great survival value for the future. To date they have produced and sold over 21,000,000 Ford cars.

Although we created the automobile market we have never thought it was good for anyone to monopolize it. We have always believed that before business could be good for one, it must be good for all. Our discoveries and improvements have always been open to other manufacturers without patent

Of course, there is one thing we cannot share-everyone must get it for himself--- and that is experience. Money could duplicate our buildings and machines, but it cannot duplicate 40 years of experience. And it is experience that makes a motor car.

But the past does not especially concern me; it has all been a preparation for the future. For myself, I feel that I have just been gathering the tools to do something worth while, and that my real task is still ahead.

Great changes are upon the world. False ideas of every kind are vanishing in the general upheaval. Those who built truly on principle will survive---their service will carry over. Business integrity and commodity honor will be fully justified. And newer and better ways of living will

That is the outlook for this young thirty-year old Company of ours.

Jail Squalor in Georgia Described In Address by Emory Sociologist

Jail squalor in Georgia as seen by a sociologist was shown in photographic form to the Rotarians Tuesday at their luncheon meeting at the Capital City Club.

Dr. Hugh N. Fuller, professor of sociology at Emory University, showed stereopticon views of a score or more jail exteriors and interiors, which he further illuminated with disparsions. He made it clear at the start that he was not on a muckraking expedition and he also said that the worst conditions shown in the pictures had since been corrected.

"I shall not attempt to draw conclusions or to form your opinions for you," he said. "Some of you may ithink that the prisoners are getting have decide—that these conditions are not sociology and moreover are costing us money."

"There are 55,000 prisoners in 151 (Mr. Fuller said, were noticeable form the building." "At the time of our visit," he said, "of which 1,000 are 16 years old and under. All are awaiting trial. He was out at the time we called. He

If it works merchants in other cities will be invited to breathe a sigh of relief and sign a "treaty of peace." The treaty proposed by the women has been discussed here at a joint meeting of clubwomen, representatives of national merchandising or the department of commerce. The women have signed, and the merchants and manufacturers expect to adopt the plan. It provides: That a six-day limit be fixed for the return of goods. COTTON'S BRIGHT PROSPECT.

The cotton grower is destined, in the opinion of Walter Parker, of New Orleans, widely known southern economist, to benefit materially from the various reconstruction steps being undertaken and

Obviously, he points out, the unpegging" of the dollar enables foreign consumers to pay for cotton in other currency than gold, which will help, and the apparent realization of the Roosevelt administration of the pressing need for lower tariffs and revived reciprocal trade, should reopen closed outlets for cotton and create new

Heretofore the farmer has been faced with the impossible task of paying debts with dollars worth twice as much as those he borrowed while his cotton was bringing him only about half what he expected. Now his debt situation is being soundly adjusted through the decline in the value of the dollar and the increase in the value of his product.

Eventually, writes Mr. Parker ufactures, will find a parity reflecting such changes as may be made in the protective tariff, which, with energy against the socialistic policy debts and to pay up his taxes, reof limiting by government fiat the sulting from the unpegging of the salaries that can be paid to the of- dollar, should work wonders in the

Personally he is a calm, quiet and unostentatious man, but one with a clear head. He was one of the rare advisers of our government who had the courage to say as far back as 1919 that the policy of reparations was a folly and that it would lead the world into misery. His prevision her was a folly and that it would lead the world into misery. His prevision has been amply verified and justified. "Germany is going to be made to pay," he wrote to Lloyd George years ago, "and Germany will pay but at the expense of the ruination of the trade of the world."

How useful it would have been to have had such men, that is men who had such a clear view of the world situation at the head of our diplomatic affairs in days gone by. Norman Davis appears on the scene only when his prediction has come true and when it is a titan's job to put some order in the affairs of the world. That such men are still willing to undertake the task, however, is proof that they do not despair. And when men of despair. And when men of ch clear visions do not despair, we

There Are No Bullies in a Camp Where No Weakling Offers Temptation -By Robert Quillen-

When a prize fighter observes that his adversary is almost spent, he forgets his own weariness and his hurts. The sight of weakness is a stimulant that multiplies his fury and his strength. In Germany some weeks ago, Nazi young men drunk with power began to persecute a helpless minority. Their number insured safety. Immune to punishment, knowing they could strike without fear of a blow in return, armed against the unarmed, they forgot the rules of mercy and fair play and raged in undisciplined brutality. The weakness of victims aroused them to fury.

Weeks later a Nazi representative came to America. And now the situation was reversed, for he was a helpless stranger in a land that scorned and resented the practices of his government.

Here, then, was opportunity for American partizans of the oppressed show how the strong should treat the weak-to give an example of fair play and magnanimous tolerance.

You know what happened. A crowd waited at the dock to greet the stranger with leers and insulting banners. And when their prey escaped by landing at another pier, their pent-up fury found relief in rioting. A regiment with fixed bayonets or a squad with a machine gun have calmed their spirits. But they were more than a thousand and there were only 50 policemen in sight. Moreover, they knew that policemen will endure much before shooting.

The sight of so much weakness was too much for them. They had the advantage and felt safe. They began to throw rocks and bottles, and one policeman suffered a broken arm before his fellow officers drew their pistols. That was the end. Guns drawn and leveled meant strength. Fury died with the disappearance of the weakness that invited it.

In the jungle there are animals that never attack one another. They are too evenly matched. Neither is weak enough to invite attack. Men and nations obey the same rule. They respect strength. But the sight of weakness is more than they can bear, it prompts them to loot, to swindle, to steal, to bully and persecute. All their fine rules are forgotten in the presence of weakness.

That is the truth on which we must base our hope of peace and security. The one fault always fatal is weakness. To permit others to grow stronger than ourselves is to tempt them beyond their power to resist. The wolf wouldn't be a killer if sheep were as strong as lions.

Here is the old New York postoffice which, according to Mrs. Sarah Jane Flaherty (left), stands on land which belongs to her family and for which Uncle Sam has paid no rent for the past 60 years. Kuhn, Loeb and Company and Dillon Read To Be Among Those Investi-

WASHINGTON, June 13.-(AP)-Senate investigators decided today to open the investigation of Kuhn, Loeb and Company, and Dillon, Read and Company, June 26.

The senate banking subcommittee in charge of the investigation decided to continue hearings this month in-stead of waiting until fall, when the inquiry into J. P. Morgan and Com-pany will be resumed.

inquiry into J. P. Morgan and Company will be resumed.

Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, reported to the senators he was ready to proceed with the other two private banking houses at any time and would soon be ready to go ahead with scrutiny of the Chase National Bank of New York.

The committee agreed to include the Chase National investigation along with the others in the hearings beginning June 26.

Pecora estimated the Kuhn, Loeb inquiry would last about 10 days.

The decision to go ahead with the inquiry now rather than waiting until fall was unanimous.

Body of Ex-Millionaire Lies Unclaimed in Death

NEW ORLEANS, La., June 13. (UP) -The body of Andrew Lamar Patterson, 12 years ago a financial power in this city, lay unclaimed in a morgue tonight.

Soiled and unkempt clothes, in which he had walked the streets for two weeks, covered his body. He had been lost to friends here since he left New Orleans after a sensational divorce case, and after he had compromised government income tax claims amounting to $750 .-000 in 1922

It was believed Patterson had been living in Mexico or in Houston, Texas, until two weeks ago. He came back here to die. A friend who knew him in his prosperous days identified the body today. It had lain in the morgue since Sun-day night, when he stood on a pier at the waterfront and shot himself in the head.

His press was a curiosity. It should be worth considerable as an antique of the printing business. It antique of the printing business. It was more than 75 years old. And he did it all alone. His paper was famous. It boasted subscribers all over the nation. Countless papers and magazines used paragraphs from his paper.

He worked as a printer's devil in the old days when Dahlonega was a great mining town with a government mint there. He had no great amount of education but he wanted to become a publisher. And so he set himself up. And for near a half-century "The Variata" anneared weekly with its Nugget" appeared weekly with its comments by the "Editor and Pro.," W. B. Townsend. He was shrewd and he had a real devotion to his town and his mountains. He knew people. He saw the fraud in them and didn't mind exposing it. His papers during the weeks of "court" were great reading. A spade was called a spade,

Other papers started in opposition to him. But none lasted long. He asked for his subscribers to pay in advance. Rather he demanded it. If one did not bring money for one's ad why one's ad simply did not get into

He accumulated a tortune of respectable figures and became a director in the Dahlonega bank. When sidewalks were proposed for Dahlonega he opposed them. He said that Dahlonega had got along well without them, that they were an added expense to the taxpayers and were not needed. When the sidewalks were voted in he refused to valk on them.

He opposed the waterworks, saying there were plenty of wells that gave pure water and that people did not need to be spending more money for water. or water.

not need to be spending more money for water.

He lived in a small room which adjoined his shop. He was to be found on its front porch every Sunday, clad in his "Sunday pants." Visitors came to see him every Sunday. He and his shop were really nationally known. He greeted every caller with cordiality. He was interested in the world as he got it through newspapers and radio.

"I don't care so much for good roads." he said in an interview a few days before his death, "they have helped develop crime. In the old gold days the miners used to send their gold down by drivers of the mule teams. It took them a week to get to Atlanta. We couldn't do that now. People used to come into Dahlonega, hitch up to the post in front of the stores and go in and buy. Now too many of them go to Atlanta and Gainesville. I'm not convinced that good roads have helped us as much as we think."

He did not go to church but listened to sermons and singing over the radio. Yet he was a devout believer, refusing only to subscribe to creeds and dogma.

He retired to his bed each day at 6 o'clock and arose at 2 o'clock each morning to begin work on his paper. It annoyed him a bit that the people slept late. In his issue of May 26 he works:

He had heard, although he had not seen, that women smoked. In his last issue. June 9, he wrote:

"We are sorry to learn that a portion of our ladies have taken up the cigaret smoking habit, and some of them have children. A part of whom are married. A lot of men when they first begin drinking will get behind a fence to turn up the bottle. So it is with the woman to light her 'rette. It is bad enough for a male person to get into but much worse for a woman. Besides the conveniences are much greater for a male person when they become experts in smoking, they can easily strike a match on the seat of their pants and have the cigaret in their mouth running full time without causing any excitement. But not so with a woman matters not what training or experience she has had. Because if she was to go out on the street with a cigaret in her mouth, fixing to light it by scratching a match on the seat of her pants and her children running behind her laughing and yelling at the top of their voices, 'Watch, mama!' Wooldn't that create excitement? We would advise all girls and women to would advise all girls and women to cease this cigaret habit before it comes to it."

He liked to remind people that he dealt for cash and wished other would do the same. When blackberries were about to come in he wrote:

"This editor does not owe a single cent. Blackberries will soon be in, which will enable him to live pretty cheap for a while longer."

"Same because it was the original crettem both. He died in his shop.

That is the measure of a great man and a great editor. For he was all of that.

Right up in the center of the stage will be a beautiful De Luxe Model Kelvinator-the finest in electric refrigeration.

See Mrs. Stafford make delicious frozen desserts in record-breaking time. Watch her use the Frost Chest, where meats can be kept indefinitely at below freezing temperature. Notice how perfectly a Kelvinator meets all the requirements Mrs. Stafford places on it.

There was jam or marmalade, usually strawberry or raspberry jam.

Sunday morning breakfasts on Nancy's porch were events which all her friends enjoyed. With some friends the breakfast was served early enough so that her guests could leave and reach church in time.

With other friends who went to earlier services or to no services all she planned a 10 o'clock meal. The white table was set with a green and white plaided cover. White dishes were used.

Those Californians Wonder Why Others Do Not "Turn Honest"

Frayne, the San Francisco sports editor, and one of the best fellows the Georgia Tech team met last winter on its trip west, was in third place a game and a half behind the Cards. It was on the trip to New York last week that Mr. Pat discovered in Jack Dempsey's office on Broadway.

"Well, well," said Mr. Frayne. "How is the state of Georgia, and are you going to have any good football teams

"Well," stammered your correspondent, "the rigors of scholastic life in the south are such that only the most hardened can prevail against them. And there has been no hiatus in the drive to reduce the sordid things of life, such as commercialism, and install, in its place football by students, which is very terrible football, if you ask me.

"Why do not the southern teams and athletic people tur asked Mr. Frayne, in a rather sharp fashion.

"Well," fumbled your correspondent, "they are very high-class men and they are resolved that there shall not be-

'Yeah," interrupted Mr. Frayne, "but they are refusing to turn honest as have the people of the University of California.

"The University of California," continued Mr. Frayne, "has announced to the world at large that it is going out and endeavor, by legitimate means, to induce young men of athletic ability to attend the university at Berkeley. They are not going to offer them money, but they are saying that there are a certain number of jobs open paying a small sum each month and that if any young fellow who can run on the track, play football or row, wants to have one it is entirely possible and let's see what can be done. In addition he must keep up scholastically.

"They are making no bones about it. They are openly recruiting. Everyone else does it and so I am in favor of all people turning honest about it," said Mr. Frayne. "Tell the south to turn honest and they will have better football teams, While your southern representative was trying to think up the answer in came Mr. Mark Kelly, of Los Angeles, patron saint of Southern California, and Howard Jones.

What has Georgia got for the Southern California game next fall?" asked Mr. Kelly. "Well," said the southern representative, trying to do Coach Harry Mehre justice, "Georgia will be pretty good next fall, better than last year by a nice margin.' "That won't be enough," said Mark Kelly. "Southern Cali- Shaute,p Engel inquired last night if Charley Moore would pitch Kleinhans against Memphis Saturday and when informed that he was scheduled to work that day, announced his intentions of looking him over then.

MACKMEN DROP TO FIFTH PLACE IN 6-10 DEFEAT

Nats Win as Manush, Goslin and Cronin Slug; Grove Works.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(P)—
Some prodigious ball pounding by a trio of Nationals against a pair of Philadelphia pitchers today gave Washington its second straight victory over the Athletics, 10 to 6, pushing the Senators a game nearer the league-leading Yankees. The defeat sent the Mackmen to fifth place.
The famous Mose Grove came in as a third Philadelphia hurler to put on one of his relief acts, limiting the Nationals to one hit in the inning he worked, but by that time the game was lost and his toil went for nothing.
Hienie Manush, "Goose" Goslin and Manager Joe Cronin stole the show.
Manush enjoyed a perfect day with five hits in as many attempts, two of his blows being doubles. Goslin had a homer and two doubles in four tries, while Cronin had a double and tries, while Cronin had a double and a single.

The Athletics jumped off into a two-run lead, went ahead again in the fifth after the Senators had tied it up, and evened matters again in the sixth after dropping behind.

Manush opened the "stretch" frame, however, with his fourth straight hit, a double that was accounted a single when a spectator snared the ball by leaning out from a left-field box. Goslin then zoomed his sixth home run of the year, bringing in Manush ahead. Schulte walked, stole second and came home on Blueze's single, with the home on Bluege's single, with the latter himself scoring on Sewell's double. That just about ended matters for the day.

Cramer, for Philadelphia, pounded out a triple, double and single in five tries while Johnson had two doubles, but the Athletics were outslugged and suffered the misfortune of that seventh inning.

Ted Kleinhans Tagged League's Best Pitcher

All Scouts, Including Joe Engel, Interested in Crackers' Leading Flinger.

By Jimmy Jones.

The Crackers undoubtedly get their share of the lemons that are tossed out on the flotsam and the jetsam of basebll, but for once they seem to have landed the prize plum of Southern league pitchers in the rather substantial person of Theodore Kleinhans, the stocky left-hander. Charley Moore, his manager, has gone on record as declaring him not only the best left-hander in this man's league, but the BEST

"I've looked at them all now and I wouldn't swap Kleinhans for any pitcher I've seen," Charley stated the other day while watching his protege cavorting around, "shagging" balls to keep his legs in shape.

REAL PROSPECT. In good times, or rather in base-all's boom days, Kleinhans would be $50,000 pitcher right now, Moore

Moore is not alone in committing himself on the sterling worth of Kleinhans. Another, Southern league manager whose ball club the young Cracker ace has beaten two games this season, expressed himself similarly in a recent chat. And this particular manager has no slouch of a pitching staff, himself.

That Joe Engel, the Washington scout, and other ivory chasers have become interested in him is sufficient backing up for any of these state-wasn't far wrong at that.

The greatest thing about Kleinhans, however, is his disposition. A fine competitor, he doesn't mind hard work. He rather takes a relish in pitching every third day. He likes to win. And he likes to pitch to Eddie Phillips, his battery mate, because Eddie knows better how to handle him than any catcher he ever pitched to. (Pardon the prepositional ending.)

FANS LIKE HIM. FANS LIKE HIM.

In all the ups and downs the ball club has had this season, Kleinhaus has been the one standout. The fans always nursed a warm hope of winning when they read in the papers that Kleinhaus was going to pitch that day.

Absolutely void of nerves and possessing a sort of devil-may-care cock-sureness, the Dutchman is what is known as a fighter out on the rubber. He likes to pitch against the "big shots" and what is more, he beats them.

A look at his record of 9 victories thus far shows that Kleinhans has been a particular anathema for the first division pace setters.

In view of all this, one is led to ask where this fellow Kleinhans has been all our lives.

Southpaw Gives Six Hits, Fans Five; Two Games Today.

It does seem that Kleinhans, like the wonderful one-horse shay, would eventually have an off day and break down under so much work. But the rugged southpaw, after pitching and winning a five-inning game over Knoxville Saturday, 1 to 0, showed up with all his stuff and emerged from at least three tight spots with dazzling pitching. He seems to thrive on hard work.

His five strikeouts yesterday, added to his four of Saturday, boosted Kleinhans' total for the season to 64 and gave him undisputed leader-thin in the dear-transfer smong the ship in that department among the league's pitchers.

The lone run scored off the star Cracker rookie was unearned. On two occasions Kleinhans bore down in the pinch to fan Krolski and Wright with runners on the bases, and went into the eighth with no scores against him.

George Gerken, first up in that, inning, fired a grounder directly at Buster Chatham—the kind the diminutive Cracker shortstop usually gobbles up—but this time he booted it, giving the Traveler center fielder a life at first. Kleinhans thought he had Browne, the next hitter, struck out, but Eddie Ainsmith, Walter Johnson's old catcher, who was calling them behind the plate, failed to give him the corner on a 3-2 pitch and Browne walked. Ab Wright, the league's leading hitter, was next up, and drove a high fly to Joe Bonowitz with no advance. Kleinhans was a bit off on Guy Sturdy, however, and walked him, too, filling the bases.

Mike Bouza, who seems to be the Cracker Nemesis of the Traveler hitting order, having already hit two singles off Kleinhans, then brought Gerken home with a fly out to Duck McKee in right. The Travelers went down one, two, three in the ninth.

Kola Sharpe, the right-hander who opposed Kleinhans at the start, was nitching fair ball until he knocked himself out of the game in the fifth after getting a clean single to left. He and Krolski, who had singled ahead of him, were on base when Harry Strohm hit one toward Dashiell. The latter had stooped over to field the ball when Sharpe crashed into him on the base lines, both players being bowled over by the impact. Bill Brennan on the bases ruled it interference. Sharpe was dazed and had to be led from the field, Guy Green relieving him after the accident. Under the rules, Sharpe was out and Krolski, who had come in, was sent back to second. SEEKING TO WIN

Southern Tourney Practice Begins Sunday; Qualify Tuesday.

By Roy White.

Missing since 1928 when Watts Gunn, now of Pittsburgh, won the crown at Dallas, Texas, Atlanta's golfers will make a determined effort next week on the East Lake Country Club course, to return the southern amateur championship title here.

Intensive practice is going on every afternoon at each of the courses and reports indicate plenty of competition from the city's delegation, particularly the youngsters.

Australians Beat African Net Stars

Australia's 3-2 victory over South Africa yesterday completed quarterfinal round competition in the European zone of Davis cup tennis play and left the Antipodeans still in the running along with England, Japan and Czecho-Slovakia.

The semi-finals, pitting England against Zzecho-Slovakia and Australia against Japan, will be played June 17-18-19, the winners to meet in the zone final July 14-15-16. The zone winners then will face the United States in the interzone finals at Auteuil, France, July 21-22-23 for the right to play France in the challenge round July 28-29-30.

On the basis of form, tennis experts expect England and Australia to advance to the finals although the latter may experience not a little trouble with Japan's crack team, The United States will be favored to win the interzone finals no matter which nation survives the rest of European play.

There were numerous highlights to the play Tuesday afternoon, only Reese and Jimmy Halverstadt, ranked as the two leading contenders for the title, having comparatively easy sailing. Billy first polished off "Molly" Williamson, who weighs 320 pounds and wears shorts on the court but plays a neat game of tennis for all that, by the score of 6-0, 6-1 in a match that required less than half an hour to play. The champion treated the gallery to some of his best stroking against Williamson, but was content to take things more easily in later putting out the hard-hitting Ray White, 6-3, 6-1.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

Frederick Von Weh is stabled to death in his top floor quarters in an old studio building while Brent; head of an art firm; Mathewson, another artist, and Sprague. Yon Veh's nephew, chat for three minutes outside his door after leaving him alone. In the clay hand of the statue he has been modeling is a dagger, which Papa Marat, who has a restaurant in the basement, says he loaned to a pretty model named Virginia. Manning Colby, Mathewson's fourth floor neighbor, has been trying to fuish a panel for Brent's inspection. He is interrupted first by Yon Veh's complaining of the molay singing of four college young sters, self-styled the Morons, in the studio beneath Manning's. Then Virginia nounces in from the fire escape. She says she quarreled with Yon Veh while posing for him, then went down to the Morons, but left because of the actions of one of the boys. Manning goes to phone Brent he won't be residy but Brent already has started. On the stairs old Dan, the janitor, tells Manning Von Veh is dead and startles him by adding. "And you're the man that did it." Why, he doesn't know, but Manning tells Brent in Dan's presence that he has been out only to dine at Marat's. Dan knows this. Papa Marat, once a roving newspaper correspondent; gets the murder story exclusively and sells it to a morning paper. Later Dan demands $2,000 as the price of his silence for a week, and Manning, in an unreasoning panic, payshim to get time to solve the mystery. Virginia asks Manning if she may see him alone. She convinces him of her innocence. Quirt leaves for a week at an artista' camp. "The Mole Hill." Manning comes on Maratin the cellar at night as Papa takes a dagger from the chinner. As they battle in the dark, a woman acreams. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY. WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

INSTALLMENT XV.

He turned to Virginia and saw in her eyes just for a moment—what was it?—a terrible fear? Before he could be sure of it, it had vanished. She called out in a phraseology oddly at variance with her lovely voice, "Oh, can it, kids!"

"Yes," George chimed in. "Stop it. You know we ushered in the angel of death to that song the other night." His voice was flippant but his rather fine brown eyes were troubled.

Pete continued to wail in that silly crooning voice, "You'll be sorry some day-ee..." And Manning fancied that his eyes were on Virginia and that there was a spark of vindictiveness in them.

"You'll be sorry some day-ee..."

with me," he said. "The chief wants to talk to you."

The four of them filed out as quietly as though their going were a part of the daily routine.

As quietly Manning and Virginia stood there, robbed for the moment of all power of thought and speech. Virginia's hand was raised in a half gesture just as it had been when the man appeared. She held it in that

"I would. Manning," she responded with a somewhat shaky gaiety. "I'm short two cents of the price of a malic ed milk and I couldn't possibly afford to eat dinner and ride home on the car, too."

And so they closed the windows of the Morons' studio and locked the door quite as if it were a nightly duty and nothing out of the ordinary had happened and went on down to the street. "It'll have to be a cafeteria, Manning, "Virginia told him, still in that the derneath it. "I can't bear to go to a dressed-up place unless I can be the most dressed-up person in it."

He Jooked at the shabby black dress and down at her shoes, slim and shapely but with the patent leather finish peeled off in spots, and it to curred to him that she was no gold digger. She hadn't even a deeenth hat. She carried her small wreck of a black turban in her hand—but really her hair was glorious! It switched about her face and neck in tumbled waves of gold.

Manning colby, should give his attention to Virginia MacBrayer's hair at so crucial a time as this!

Her suggestion as to a cafeteria proved an advisable one as far as privacy was concerned. There was such a clatter of trays, cuttery and crocker that plots to overthrow a dozen hatched at a dozen different tables without attracting the slightest at tention.

Under cover of this mealtime symbony he put to her again the questing and the day and the plony he put to her again the questing and the day and the plant the controlled a caught is fear of observation. Finally Manning spoke. "What..." he asked.

"I don't know," she answered. "I can't imagine."

"But," he began. "what could there be?"

Then his sentence was cut off as suddenly as Pete's song had been. He was staring at Virginia's upraised hand—the left hand. On the index finger she wore a topaz ring—such a very large ring—with a sort of sharp silver leaf protruding from it.

He looked at his own hand—at the the cut made by a large ring—a ring on the hand he had grasped and held in the dark in the basement—before the woman screamed.

Manning tore his gaze from Virginia's injug and his thoughts from all possible conjectures the sight of it raised in his mind, and managed to suggest quite cascally that it was 6 o'clock and that perhaps she might care to go out to dinner with him.

"I would, Manning." she responded with a somewhat shaky gaiety. "I'm short two cents of the price of a malted milk and I couldn't possibly afford to eat dinner and ride home on the car, to."

"There isn't anything that you've held back from me?"

She replied candidly, "No, not anything that has enything to do with those boys. The only thing I can say about them is this: all four of them were in their studio when V. V. was killed. I know that."

He was silent for a moment, frowning, turning the thing over in his mind. Then he asked, "But didn't you say, Ginny, that that night, when they discovered that the police were there, they said, 'They've found out something: we must keep Ginny out of this.'?"

"Yes," she said. "They did. I don't know what it was all about, but I don't think it had anything to do with the murder of V. V. I don't think they wnew anything about that. They couldn't have had any motive."

He flashed a quick question: "Do you know anyone who could have had any motive."

She laughed and despite the much discussed classical lines of her face she looked like an impudent little gamin. "Did you bring me here to eat my dinner or to answer a questionnaire, mister? I'm hungry: I somehow missed out on lunch today. And here in front of me is a nice piece of shad roe all wrapped in bacon. I love shad roe and bacon. Can't you wait just a few minutes?"

Obediently Manning turned the conversation. He was amazed at Virginia's real interest in art and her knowledge of it. Her comments were discerning, not just hit or miss opin-

NEW YORK, June 13.—(P)—Financial markets showed signs of weariness today, and closing prices in many directions were lower.

Stocks stumbled into selling during the last hour coincident with a rally by dollar exchange. Wheat and rye, after touching new highs, also slid off, while cotton and bonds joined the off, while cotton and bonds joined the general easing.

Rail shares offered a helping hand to other stocks for a time in the afternoon, but their independent strength failed to draw much response; pivotal industrials, in fact, were noticeable laggards, nor did the utilities exhibit much courage. The dollar's advance, gaining momentum as the day wore on, apparently was a signal for heavy profit-taking toward the close and there was a long list of 1 to 4-point net losses in all stock groups. Sales totaled 6.304,540 shares.

there was a long list of 1 to 4-point net losses in all stock groups. Sales totaled 6.304.540 shares.

Fast movers of Tuesday's market slid back appreciably, though all of the previous day's gains, on the average, was not quite lost. American Telephone, Case, American Sugar and National Distillers dropped about 4 net. Allied Chemical, American Can, Du Pont, North American, Sears-Roebuck and United States Steel yielded 2 to more than 3. United States Steel was off nearly 2. Rails also turned soggy; Union Pacific, which had been up half a dozen points, held about a sixth of its rise, while most other carriers showed moderate losses.

Wall Street has been rather surprised by the prompt injection of the war debt issue into the London deliberations. As trading closed for the day it, was, indicated Great Britain planned to offer a 10 per cent payment on her bill which, whether accepted or rejected, would probably mean that the whole troublesome question of repayments to this country would be brought to a head for settlement.

Trade news continued cheerful. Sev-Trade news continued cheerful. Several western railroads reported larger loadings last week than for either the preceding week or a year ago; measured against volume for the latter period many of the gains were substantial. American Metal Market in its weekly summary of the steel trade's position and prospects said the industry would be "quite busy up to the the middle of July as customers will specify very fully on their second quarter contracts for semi-finished and finished steel products on acduction in wheat, corn and cotton.

Wheat closed nervous, 3-8 to 3-4

NEW YORK, June 13.—(P)—United States government securities and foreign obligations rallied in the bond market today, but elsewhere prices developed an irregularly lower trend.

Some of the speculative loan groups apparently were influenced by the weakness of stocks and the accompanying rally of the American dollar in foreign exchange markets. Federal issues reflected the recent heavy oversubscription of the treasury's $1.000.000,000 short-term offering and belief that the reserve system will continue its steady open market purchases.

Heavy trading in some of the secondary divisions put the sales volume up to $16,132,000, par value, against yesterday's aggregate of $13,103,000. The average for 60 domestic corporate bonds lost two-tenths of a point.

German loans recovered 1 to 4 or more points on reports that the transfer moratorium might be modified somewhat by the reichsbank. Other foreign maturities up 1 to around 3 included some of Australia, Brazil, Chile, Deumark, France and Urugusy. Highlights of Wall Street

BY CHARLES W. STORM, Editor, the News Service of Wall Street.

(Copyright, 1933, by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

NEW YORK, June 13.—The current advance in the stock market has been so rapid and protracted that professional traders are waiting for a "healthy reaction," which usually follows such a sharp rise.

Because of this many professional operators sold stocks in fair volume today following the circulation of rumors of unfavorable developments to come out of Washington on some of the important questions such as the veterans' compensation phase of the administration's money program.

Short selling also was indulged in the stelling also was indulged in witnessed when Washington dispatches stated that Senator Black had said passage of the industrial bill, would be followed by a move to limit the profits of industry.

The biggest operators who have the profits of industry.

The biggest operators who have continue to adhere to their big positions in the pivotal stocks.

The commodity markets were relatively steady and gossip in the Street was to the effect the price of wheat probably would have a sharp advance in the immediate future because of the steady advance in the steady advance in the price of steel products. This increases the belief an advance in prices of steel products is now imminent.

depriving many millions of farm and home owners from the title and equity to their proprety.

"The act extends the same principle of relief to home owners as we have already extended to farm owners. Furthermore, the act extends this relief not only to people who have borrowed money on their homes but also to their mortgage creditors.

"It will, of course, take a little while to set up the machinery necessary to carry the principles of the act into effect. In the meantime, I appeal to mortgage creditors and all others who have claims against home owners and ask them, until full opportunity has been given to make effective the refinancing provisions of the home mortgage act that they abstain from bringing foreclosure proceedings and that they abstain from seeking to dispossess the home owners who are in debt to them.

"Co-operation between the officials of the Home Owners Loan Corporation, the mortgager and the mortgagees during the next few months will make many foreclosures unnecessary and will do substantial justice to all parties concerned."

The administration hopes to have the new plan in active operation within a month.

TARE PROBLEM STUDIED BY AGRICULTURE BOARD

Farmers Must Adopt Standard Cover or Lose on Bale's Weight.

WASHINGTON, June 18 .- Some cotton growers believe that by selling cotton on gross weight they make a cotton on gross weight they make a profit on the bale coverings. Actually they receive practically nothing for the bale covering since the market price discounts the quality of tare. When cotton is actually worth 10 1-2 cents a pound net for example, the grower gets only 10 cents a pound gross, says the bureau of agricultural economics, department of agricultural. The fallacy that tare is sold at cotton prices has tended to prevent establishment of a net weight cotton selling system in this country, and the covering of bales with more satisfactory and lighter weight materials, the covering of bales with more satisfactory and lighter weight materials, according to the bureau. The bureau says that the gross weight system of selling American cotton results in serious economic loss through waste, damage to the badly packed bales and lack of uniformity in weight of tare. American cotton has long been characterized as the poorest packaged commodity in world trade, and this fact, says the bureau, puts the cotton at an unnecessary disadvantage in employment service.

Head of U. of Chicago To Aid New Job Service

WASHINGTON, June 13 .- (AP) Secretary Perkins today announced the appointment of President Robert Hutchins, of the University of Chicago, as chairman of the advisory committee to be set up in connection with the new federal employment service.

Senator Wagner, of New York, and President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, and President Henry I. Harriman, of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, also have been invited.

Miss Perkins described the new service being set up in conformance with the Wagner bill passed recently as "aiming at the complete organization of the labor market so that we will know where the idle people are and where the jobs are."

A survey of cotton tare problems has convinced bureau officials, however, that the tracking in each of the light regist tracking in each of the schools would participate, and passage of resolutions expressing terminate death of the late William C. A survey of cotton tare problems has convinced bureau officials, however, that "net weight trading in cotton would be feasible only if accompanied by some positive provision for the standardization of bale covering materials, which would permit of ascertaining the net weight of a bale of cotton conveniently and without undue expense."

Standardization, it is stated, would insure the use of materials that would provide adequate protection to the contest of bales.

The bureau regards as essential features of a tare standardization program the adoption of definite specifications as to dimensions, weights and strength of bale covering materials including bagging, ties, and patches. It believes that new and rewoven jute, sugar bag cloth and cotton could be standardized for bagging and patches within a reasonable range of tolerance as to weight and strength and both steel bands and steel wire standardized for ties.

In a comprehensive report on cotton tare problems the bureau says that "under a system of net weight trading and standardized tare, marketing agencies would no longer be able to exact a profit by adding patches of cotton bales, but would realize definite advantages in the way of freight savings, the simplification of trading practices and price calculations, elimination of risks associated with uncertainties as to weight of tare, possible savings in insurance, savings in customs duties in certain instances and in the sales adsurance, savings in customs duties in certain instances and in the sales advantage of a neater package."

Mr. Conroy described how threatening letters were traced, how a dummy package of bills was left in a vacant house at Hapeville and wired to sound off an alarm and how they captured Boyles when an effort was made to take the ransom package.

Mr. Hager stated that he intends to introduce a confession of Boyles' this morning. Boyles attempted to plead guilty last Saturday, but Tuesday entered a plea of not guilty.
